

Same and Different Too

Same and different too, same and different too.

I like it when it's cloudy;
Well, I like it when it's clear.
I like it when it's raining;
I like when rainbows appear.

We like the sounds of the city;
They like the country the best.
We like those eastern oceans;
They like the ones in the west.

Though we're so much the same,
We're different too,
Different names and points of view,
But lots of things we all like to do.
Same and different too, same and different too.

Different singers in the same band,
Different fingers on the same hand,
Different pieces of the same pie,
Different but the same, you and I.

Though we're so much the same, we're different too,
Just the same and different too.
Same and different too, same and different too.

Different shells from the same shore,
Different socks from the same drawer,
Different stars from the same sky,
Different but the same, you and I.

Different smiles from the same face,
Different sounds from the same bass,
Different ones from the same two, we're just the same.
Same and different, same and different,
Same and different too.
Same and different too.
Same and different too.
Same and different too.
